Sandtray Play Therapy: Level 3 – Clinical Skills and Theory Online Interactive

Description:

Participants in this 3-part workshop will have numerous opportunities to develop and practice specific skills in working with the language of sand tray play therapy. Therapists will use exercises to learn when and how to translate play language into verbal language, and they will also explore the multidimensionality of sand tray play therapy as an expressive art. In addition, therapists will learn how to use the polyvagal theory of play to articulate how play helps to create a resilient nervous system.
